Westlake Resident Shocked By Council's Denial Of Community Center For School

Editor:
Dear sir:
For the past two years as a resident and home owner in Daly City I have been firmly and strongly behind every bond issue and every issue for the betterment of Daly City.

However, as of now I wish to state that not only will I vote against a bond issue to finish the Community Center, but will work actively against it.

The councilmen's decision not to permit the Center to be used as classrooms for our school children is a great mistake.

In our school system the eighth grade is so very important in preparing the children for high school. They must be prepared properly or they will be dropping out of school rapidly from that grade on. Our war and draft are all ready making it hard enough to keep our youth in school without any additional reasons.

Surely we parents do not need a fancy building for parties, meetings and so forth if it means preventing our children from receiving a proper education.

Reasoning

The reasoning behind the denial by the council as set forth in your paper represents very small and shallow thinking on their parts. When pretty landscaping and perfect flooring in a public building become more important than education, it's time we let the public building go and concentrate entirely on new schools and a better educational program for our children.

The school board has made its recreation facilities available to all at all times. Why then should we not do all we can to relieve them of their current need for more classrooms?

My oldest child is but six years old, so it is not from him I am acting; but it is for those who will be directly affected.

Until our dire need for more schools has been fulfilled, all future bond issues must be for that purpose only!

I am requesting that you print all of this letter.

Very truly yours,
Paul S. Thomas

Name Petrocchi Permanent Chief

Council Calls For Bids On Community Center

Roland Petrocchi, acting police chief here since last August, was given a permanent appointment by the city council at their regular meeting Monday.

The appointment followed a favorable recommendation by the Civil Service Board of Review which noted Petrocchi passed all necessary tests for the job. The position was unopposed. Petrocchi's permanent status will be effective as of July 16.

The 37-year-old policeman took over the acting chief's job when Chief W. W. Sunderland left the department in the wake of book-making protection charges August 29, 1951.

A former Jefferson high school baseball star, Petrocchi worked for THE RECORD as a printer for six years; joined the police force in August 1941 and was promoted to sergeant in 1946.

He and his family, wife Gloria, daughter Andrea, 12, Diane, 11, and son Ronald 9, live at 46 Mission circle.

More Business

Other business before the council Monday night included:

1. Calling for bids on site work, landscaping and plumbing at the Community Center building. Bids on the estimated $8,000 to $10,000 job will be opened July 28.

2. Requested further information on a proposed traveling billboard company for Daly City. Through his attorney Thomas Doci, and A. A. Goring, Rt. 1, box 4, Colma has requested to operate a car pulling a billboard and sound system through Daly City from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. City Administrator Dan Andersen was requested to contact Bocci for further information.

3. Appointed to a permanent position as clerk Mrs. Catherine (Continued on Page 2)

Edgewood Terrace Group Meets Monday

A number of important items of general interest are scheduled to be discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Edgewood Hillside Civic Improvement club next Monday, July 21, Wayne Carr, secretary, announced today.

The meeting gets underway at 8 p. m. in the American Legion hall, 474 San Diego avenue.

Residents of the Hillside-Edgewood district are cordially invited to attend.

B'moor Directors Still Hopeful For Shuttle Bus

Financial Status Discussed At Meet

A plan to run the Broadmoor shuttle bus through Westlake and thence back to Daly City is still in the planning stage, Broadmoor Property Owners board of directors learned last Thursday evening.

The proposed meeting between San Francisco municipal railroad authorities and a delegation from the board was cancelled.

However, the directors still believe the plan may be worked out to the mutual benefit of both Broadmoor and Westlake. Consequently a meeting between the Broadmoor board and the Westlake Property Owners Association will be called in the near future.

George Pingry, Westlake Association president, earlier said he opposed the move if it meant a "slight seeing" tour of Broadmoor. He called for alternate direct bus routes from Daly City to Broadmoor and back; and from Daly City to Westlake and back.

COASTSIDE RESIDENTS "THREATENED" WITH ANNEXATION TO DALY CITY

At a special incorporation meeting last Thursday evening, Coastside residents were "threatened" with annexation to Daly City.

Chief selling point for residents of the area between Edgemar and Pedro Point forming into a city was made by Ray Logan, president of the Sharp Park Improvement Club.

"If we don't make this important move soon, we may be swallowed up by Daly City," Logan asserted.

This brought a select number of hoots from the audience of 25 to 30 residents, who indicated they were strongly opposed to joining Daly City or any other existing municipality.

Logan darkly hinted they might not have anything to say about the subject, and unless 5,000 residents of the Coastside incorporated soon they might be annexed by Daly City or South San Francisco.

Jones Interested

In the "now it can be told" department, a year and one-half ago Roy Jones, a leading realtor in Edgemar, wrote a confidential letter to the Daly City council requesting annexation of Edgemar and Pacific Manor by Daly City.

The proposal was studied by Mayor Paul Green and the city council. However, Jones was given a negative answer with the reservation Daly City might be interested in such a move, but at a "later date."

Principal stumbling block for taking over the Coastside area at this time appears to be one of distance. The southern boundary of Daly City is eight miles from the first housing tract on the coast, and to provide the necessary police and fire protection for such a distant area appears to be out of the question.

Pacific Manor

However, Henry Doelger owns extensive holdings south of Daly City and on the other side of the "mountains" separating the Coast side area from Skyline boulevard. Logan said it was just possible Doelger may decide to develop this property, and by asking to become a part of Daly City, would stretch the boundaries of this community to the very gates of Pacific Manor.

Pointing to a map, City Administrator Dan Andersen observed this week the only chance for expansion was to the south along Skyline and the coast.

"It is my personal opinion it certainly would be advantageous for Daly City to annex this area. However, this hardly appears a suitable time for such a move."

In "threatening" Coastside residents with annexation, Logan evidently overlooked one major point—state law requires an election in which a majority of residents of the area to be annexed must approve the move. If residents at the Thursday evening meeting were a fair cross section of Coastside opinion, chances of a popular move to join Daly City are relatively nil.

Trail Of Blood Traps Two Youths

Blood will tell...and literally did Tuesday evening when two young detention home escapees were trapped behind a Broadmoor home by officers minutes after a burglary.

Chief Paul Schmidt said a trail of blood lead Officers Don Tannehill and Ray Savage from the burglarized home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Scanlon, 6 Sullivan avenue to the house of Mrs. Keller, 91st and Sullivan ave., where two sulen youths, 13 and 14 years old respectively were hiding out.

However, this wasn't the first meeting between the 13-year-old boy, who had cut his hand while breaking the rear door window in the Scanlon home, and Officer Tannehill. Just one hour before the youth's capture the officer had received a call from Mrs. Keller requesting aid for the boy. Officer Tannehill, little suspecting how he had cut his hand, rushed him to Junipero Serra hospital where 11 stitches were taken in the boy's (Continued on Page 2)

Award Contracts For $1,000,000 School Building

W'Lake - Broadmoor Street Dedicated

Close to a one million dollar school building program was launched by the Jefferson elementary school district Monday evening with the awarding of contracts for construction of new schools.

Largest single contract went to the Garrico Gautier Company for construction of a 23 classroom addition to the Colma school. They bid $637,400, which was $133,000 below early estimates.

In fact, H. Z. Weibel, superintendent of schools, reported all of the bids were "considerably below" conservative estimates submitted to the school board.

Other successful bidders included: Garden Village school, four additional classrooms—Joel Johnson & Son, $83,254. Next closest bidder was C. N. Peletz Co. with $84,700.

Westlake School

Westlake school, multi-purpose room—Joel Johnson & Son, $74,554. B & R Construction company came in second with $76,800.

Woodrow Wilson school, multi-purpose room and work on the school yard—C. M. Peletz Co., $123,000. Runner-up was the Giusto Co. with a bid of $125,700. Funds for construction will come from the state's "improved" school district coffers.

Work on all these projects will begin within the next 30 days with the completion date, depending on the size of the project, set from early next spring to early fall of 1953.

When completed it is expected most of the present double sessions will be eliminated, Weibel said. Meanwhile, close to every class entering the fall session will be on a "swing shift."

Connecting Street

Only other important business concluded by the board Monday evening was dedication of the much disputed "red route," a road leading from 87th street in Broadmoor to the Alemany expressway.

ON GUARD AGAINST ANY ENEMY ATTACK are these soldiers manning a radar screen just off of Skyline boulevard on the ocean boundary of Daly City. While the army appears to take the whole problem of civilian defense seriously, the local civilian defense organization leaves much to be wanted...at least according to a state official interviewed by THE RECORD this week.

Council Challenges Webster Definition

Why was Director of Recreation Elman Rose's name left off five bronze plaques which will commemorate the work done by city officials in recreation here? The city council had the answer this week. In a unanimous decision Monday evening they ruled Rose is a city employee, and therefore does not rate a place in bronze.

Conveniently overlooked was the name of A. J. Conci, city gardener, whose name appears on four of the five plaques. Conci, who now receives $200 a month for his services, is evidently not a city employee in the council's political dictionary.

Daly City Residents Offered Fine Shopping

A new era in Daly City shopping began this Wednesday at 12:30, when The Emporium, Northern California's largest department store, made a major de-centralization move and opened its new unit at Stonestown, 19th avenue and Winston drive, in West San Francisco.

More than a mere branch store, the new Big E will offer to the rapidly growing community in (Continued on Page 2)

Slate Second Westlake Survey

Transportation Talks Fail To Speed PUC

A second transportation survey this time by the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission...will be conducted in Westlake in the "very near future," Mayor Paul Green announced today.

The survey is the positive result of a meeting between the PUC and city councilmen Tuesday afternoon. However, it will be nothing new to Westlake residents, for only last month a similar one was conducted by the Westlake Property Owners Association.

"We showed the results of this to the San Francisco Commissioners, and they seemed impressed," Green said. "They said they would take the matter up with their staff soon and generally review the situation after a survey of their own."

During the past two years local councilmen have been fighting to obtain transportation for Westlake. However, San Francisco appears reluctant to extend their service when faced with the possibility of running in the "red."

The recent Westlake survey indicated to local officials that enough residents of that area would use the San Francisco system to make it profitable. Evidently not (Continued on Page 2)

State Head Hits Apathy

Daly City has one of the worst civilian defense setups in northern California.

This is the contention of E. George Davis, assistant regional coordinator for the state office of civilian defense who, in a special interview with THE RECORD this week, spelled out lack of preparation here in terms of death and disaster.

Mission Street A "Nightmare Alley" When Bombs Come

"Nightmare Alley" will be the word for Mission street when and if bombs fall on San Francisco.

Without consulting San Mateo county civilian defense officials, San Francisco authorities have laid down plans for evacuation which will make Mission street and other streets in Daly City a funnel through which the panic-stricken population of San Francisco will flow.

All outbound traffic on the two trans-Bay bridges will be stopped and diverted into San Mateo county via San Jose avenue, Mission street, Junipero Serra and the Bayshore.

San Francisco traffic, supposedly confined to out-of-town residents, their cars and business vehicles, will be permitted to leave San Francisco by way of Mission street, San Jose avenue or Skyline boulevard.

This traffic plan will be followed after an "All Clear" signal has been given.

While an attack is still in progress, mutual aid routes will be used to enable help from less-stricken communities to get to the more heavily damaged areas. San Jose avenue, Junipero Serra boulevard and the Bayshore are listed among the substitute mutual aid routes.

Even under the "All Clear" conditions, the Bayshore will be restricted to mutual aid, medical evacuation and airport traffic.

Fight Waged Over Cop's Pay

Temper were running high and hot in Broadmoor this week, following a denial of pay hikes by the Broadmoor Police Commission last Tuesday evening.

The hush-hush conclave was reported this week by an official of the Broadmoor Property Owners Association. He told the following story:

Harry Brown, 40, 755 Stewart drive submitted a letter of resignation from his job as auxiliary policeman following the failure of Commissioner Val Olson to second a motion made by Commissioner Pat Patey to up part-time salaries for a four day a month job to $15 a day. Brown (Continued on Page 2)

"Your city borders on a critical target area for enemy attack," Davis asserted. "Should the enemy launch its bombers, Daly City would either be hit, or be the main funnel for traffic out of the Bay Area."

Like Cassandra of old, Davis says he has vainly tried to paint this picture in terms of reality for city officials. He asserts he has been met only with shrugs and vague promises.

"During the past two years I have visited your city officials at least twice a month. I have still to see a workable civilian defense program here."

I Charge

Specifically, Davis deplored the failure of Daly City to meet the basic requirements of a civilian defense system including:

1. A civilian defense director. Under the present setup City Administrator Dan Andersen is in charge of this program. "While Mr. Andersen has shown interest in the program, he certainly does not have the time to devote to it. I feel the city council should give him some kind of assistance." (So does Andersen, who for the past month has been seeking to find a part time director.)

2. A civilian defense "general staff." While the city has named several of these men to handle evacuation, police protection, air raids etc., they have never appointed any assistants, or actually met. Davis appeared to be particularly disappointed about this: "The only names I have discovered, I've taken from stories running in THE RECORD. During the past six months I have vainly attempted to get the city to fill out a form with the names of those individuals in charge of the civilian defense program. I have sent them three copies of the same form, and still no results."

Volunteers

3. A civilian defense volunteer organization. Davis asserts there has been little or no effort to recruit volunteers here. "As they don't know where to go, many of your people have tried to volunteer in San Francisco. Believe me, there is no shortage of people who wish to help." There is an especially crying need for air raid wardens here, Davis asserted.

Control Center

Foreman Says Community Center Will Deteriorate If Not Occupied Soon

"The entire building will begin deteriorating within six months if it's not used soon."

This was the persuasive argument of a foreman for Ralph Larsen and Sons, contractors of the much-disputed and still uncompleted Community Center building.

Free Opinions

Refusing to identify himself, but freely giving his opinions on the flashy new building, which the city council recently ruled out for classroom use, he added:

"This is one of the best buildings I've worked on, but the walls will open up, the paint start to peel, and the whole place begin deteriorating unless it's occupied and heated soon."

"Every sub-contractor on the job has lost money because they have had to do everything two or three times—and the place is still uncompleted. I think the building is 'A-1', just a little finishing off needed. But unfortunately the architect doesn't agree with me."

Will Lock Up

"But, either way you look at it, it's too bad the city let people believe there was enough money to finish it when there wasn't. The building is no good as it is, no one can use it 'til it's finished, and I'll take the keys and lock it up if we don't get an okay to finish it."

He added that in its present state the building is unusable for public gatherings because of inadequate ventilation and plumbing facilities. (Bids for the plumbing jobs were called by the city council this week.)

Hopes of the city council are that the people will see fit to pass a $150,000 bond issue to finish the Center. The first attempt to get a $160,000 issue through for the (Continued on Page 2)

Brownie And Ginger Have Their Day In Court . . . But Don't Come Out So Well

Many a resident of the 1000 block on Brunswick street seems to have been at odds with Brownie and Ginger, who aren't yet three years old.

At any rate, Mrs. Katherine Heller, 1020 Brunswick, was notified to appear Tuesday in Daly City municipal court and explain to Judge William J. Sweeney why 13 of her neighbors saw fit to file complaints charging her with maintaining a public nuisance (Brownie and Ginger).

Mrs. Heller and eight of the complainants duly appeared. Brownie and Ginger did not see fit to attend, but Ralph Sullivan, assistant district attorney was on hand to prosecute the case in the name of the people of the State of California.

Gist of the testimony was that Brownie and Ginger (who are really nice dogs, said Mrs. Heller) had on various occasions bit, chewed, scratched, jumped on, barked at, and otherwise evinced no friendship towards the complainants and persons of their acquaintance.

Mrs. Heller said she had always (Continued on Page 2)

Former Councilman Named To Planning Com'ission Monday

Carr Appointed To Library Group

A former city councilman, and an aspirant to the council were chosen to serve on the newly created five man planning board Monday evening, City Administrator Dan Andersen announced today.

Named to the commission were:

Fred Bertetta, 10 Wilshire Ct. A councilman from 1948 to 1952 Bertetta decided not to seek reelection this year. Bertetta is owner and manager of a gas distributing company and generally active in civic affairs.

Thomas Tromborg, 6512 Mission street. It was Tromborg, who as a newcomer to city politics, came close to winning a seat on the city council at the last election. A pioneer resident of Daly City, Tromborg is in the plumbing business.

Valentine Franz, 116 Wilshire avenue, Franz has been a resident of Daly City for the past two years and is a civil engineer.

Club Head

Sanford Vickers, 155 Abbott. President of the Edgewood Hillside Improvement Club, Vickers has been active in local civic affairs for many years. He is a locomotive engineer.

William Pinney, 69 Cliffside drive. An attorney, Pinney has been a resident here for the past two years.

The five man commission will be sworn into office at the next regular meeting of the city council, July 28, as will be the three recently appointed members of the police commission.

Appointment of the commissioners is in keeping with a new local governing policy to delegate more and more power to various groups who have the time and experience to handle them properly.

Powers

The planning commission will have more extensive powers than any of the other commissions. According to state law, they not only will act in an advisory capacity to the city council, but in certain cases may make the final decision. Principal duties of this organization will be to determine zoning and building regulations.

Library Group

Meanwhile, at the city council Monday evening the final member to the library commission was appointed. He is Dale Wayne Carr, 24, 531 Hillside. Carr is secretary of the Edgewood Hillside Civic Improvement Club and a claims adjuster for the California State Automobile Association. He has been a resident of Daly City for the past 11 years.

Only commissioners still to be named are those for the five man fire commission. They are expected to be appointed later this month.

paid their doctor's bills.

A gentleman, speaking for his mother who was one of the complainants, took the floor and said Mrs. Heller had failed to pay for a pair of his mother's stockings which had become entangled in the dogs' teeth while she was wearing them.

Judge Sweeney found Brownie and Ginger guilty of being public nuisances and ordered Mrs. Heller to post a $250 bond on condition of their good behavior and to keep them confined at all times to their own yard.

Foreman Says

purpose failed last year at the polls.

Last Wednesday, the city council delivered to Superintendent of Schools H. Z. Weibel its decision not to permit use of the Center for classrooms.

Weibel reported that approximately 220 eighth grade children will have to go on double sessions as a result of the decision.

The council's decision was based on two factors; that occupancy by school children would hold up completion of the building (assuming the bond issue is passed), and that children would disrupt landscaping plans and do serious damage to the auditorium floors.

The unidentified foreman admitted that the floor could be easily injured if walked on with ordinary shoes.

tension, via the new Westlake Town & Country shopping center.

Weibel reported there were no oral or written objections to this decision, despite a running battle of the past three years in opposition to any connecting street.

With the dedication of the new road, the county will abandon a portion of White street thus allowing the school district to proceed with building plans.

County planning commissioners were adamant in refusing to give up White street—which held up construction of the upper Garden Village school—until the school board dedicated a second connecting road between Westlake and Broadmoor.

A few minutes after he had brought the Merced youth home, Officer Tannehill was called out on the burglary case. He and Officer Savage went to the Scanlon home where they discovered a trail of blood through the house, out the back door and up the street. Following the blood stains they arrived at the Keller home.

It didn't take a bloodhound to relate the recent accident case to the burglary, and at headquarters the boys reluctantly admitted they had escaped one week before from the State Frisco Ranch detention home.

The 14-year-old San Carlos boy explained he and his friend had come to Mrs. Keller and he had passed himself off as the son of Mrs. Keller's sister. As Mrs. Keller had never seen her sister's son, she took in the two boys and had fed and clothed them for the week preceding the Tuesday burglary.

Chief Schmidt today cleared Mrs. Keller of any involvement in the crime.

Police recovered the stolen items which included a blue suit coat, a three piece grey suit and a gold necklace. Six bottles of beer stolen from the home had been downed by the youths.

Chief Schmidt turned the two boys over to Hillcrest authorities.

CANADA'S NICKEL PRODUCTION FIVE TIMES THAT OF RUSSIA

Canada's contribution to the overwhelming superiority of the free world in the field of nickel is marked by the fact that Canadian annual production is five times the amount estimated for Russia.

GLAMOROUS YET USEFUL

Nickel silver, an alloy of nickel, copper and zinc, is the glamour metal of the non-ferrous foundry. It is used in architecture and public buildings, and in the railroad, marine, household and food handling fields.

LIVING ON NICKEL

Practically all residents of the Sudbury mining area in Northern Ontario, about 70,000, derive their living directly or indirectly from nickel.

The first "East-West" football game, between Stanford and the University of Chicago, was played on Christmas Day, 1894, in San Francisco.

"Blast" Local Civilian Defense and time again I have asked for such a center, but received no satisfaction."

Failure to properly organize the aforesaid program is costing Daly City a transmission and receiver CD station. The state is willing to put in this station, but only if Daly City measures up to an adequate civilian defense program, Davis stated. Purpose of the control measure would be to relay messages to various points in the Bay Area in case of an attack.

Blame

Local leaders have long admitted a certain lack of coordination in the civilian defense organization here, but blame the state and federal government for failure to supply necessary funds and information.

"This is hardly the truth," Davis claims. "During the past two years I have called on your city at least twice a month. Their program certainly hasn't failed for lack of guidance or information."

As for funds, Davis says the state is now installing a $125 bell and light air raid warning system here. Also, they have supplied $104,000 in medical supplies to San Mateo county.

"We would be willing to do more, but we must first see some signs of cooperation from your city," Davis said.

Talk Needed

Who is to blame for this apparent failure? Davis said he wasn't sure, but he believed it to be an "apathetic city council." He also said he had endeavored to talk to Mayor Paul Green several times, but the mayor "was always too busy."

However, Davis was quick to assert he didn't want to blame anyone, but rather to improve the local civilian defense program. "If I could only get to talk to your city council, I could convince them of the need. I am willing to appear before these gentlemen, but I never have been asked."

Davis' statement bore out in part the contentions of an auxiliary policeman who two weeks ago blamed the failure of the civilian defense program on the council's laxity. The councilmen dismissed this charge as "unwarranted."

Fall From Swing Brings Four Stitches To Youth

tions today are that the Association is in excellent financial shape with $9,600 in the bank. This money augmented by yearly dues, will be employed for such things as planting trees in Broadmoor, repairing street signs and generally improving conditions in the area.

Only other important discussion of the evening was the board taking note of the new police department status in regards to police calls. In the past the Daly City department has handled all calls, but henceforth local residents must call the Sheriff's office, Emerson 8-3911, to contact Broadmoor police out in their police cars.

McKay concluded the meeting by requesting news of the directors meetings be held up. This matter was laid over for further discussion at the open meeting of the board, August 12.

and Gale Galusha, another auxiliary officer, now receive $8 a day.

As Commissioner Armando Ferraris failed to make the Tuesday meeting, the two commissioners were deadlocked. However, a compromise was reached wherein the extra officers will receive $50 a month, $10 short of what was requested.

This, according to the Broadmoor official, was not enough for Brown, and he has resigned. Galusha is still considering.

Also denied was a salary hike for Chief of Police Paul Schmidt who now receives $350 a month, and had requested a $50 hike. Schmidt said he had no comment to make today, and refused to make any statement on the commissioners meeting.

Full time Officers Don Tannehill and Ray Savage did a little better for themselves. Their monthly pay check will now read $325, instead of $300.

Repercussions of the two man meeting are expected at the next conclave August 12. The Broadmoor official indicated they may be a "few more resignations" from the force.

$106,000 Pledged To School Drive

Parishioners of Holy Angels church have already pledged more than $106,000 toward the fund drive to finance construction of the parish school and enlargement of the church itself, reports general fund drive chairman Thomas J. Callan.

The figure was computed as of Tuesday night, he added, when slightly more than half of the parish had been covered by 300 volunteer workers.

Approximately $250,000 will be required to pay the entire construction bill, it was announced last week. The drive will continue through next Thursday, July 24, when a final report meeting will be held.

Pledge drive workers began the drive with personal calls last Sunday night, and though they were not able to contact everyone in the parish at that time, results were so encouraging, said Callan, that workers who were originally asked to devote only Sunday night to the drive have agreed to stay on and complete coverage of the parish.

The new school, designed to handle the first five grades, is virtually completed. Only interior work remains to finish it, he added.

About two more months of work will be required to end work on the church. With a present capacity of 220 seats, it will handle nearly 480 persons when the enlargement is done.

Donations of about $200 per family were asked for, with payments spread over a period of two years or more.

WHEN CARS OVERHEAT

There are nearly half a hundred reasons for an engine overheating, points out the National Automobile Club. Usually, however, it is one of five: a lack of water or oil in the engine, a broken fan belt or one that is slipping, too rich a carburetor mixture, or incorrect timing.

TWO OUT OF FIVE FATALITIES ARE PEDESTRIANS

Two out of every five persons killed in traffic accidents, and one out of four of those injured, are pedestrians, according to the National Automobile Club. You can help reduce this rate by keeping your head up, your eyes open, and your mind alert whenever you are walking near or through traffic.

NICKEL FROM CANADA

Canadian producers of nickel in 1951 were responsible for approximately 275,000,000 pounds of nickel production, or more than 90 per cent of the free world's total.

Post Office Employee Leaves Daly City

A familiar face behind the Money Order window of the local post office is missing today.

Clarence E. DeRouen, 165 Ramona street, South San Francisco, money order clerk here for the past three and a half years, is now at the Stonestown post office branch.

DeRouen departed for his new job in Stonestown Friday morning. The post office wherein he will work is located in the new Emporium store.

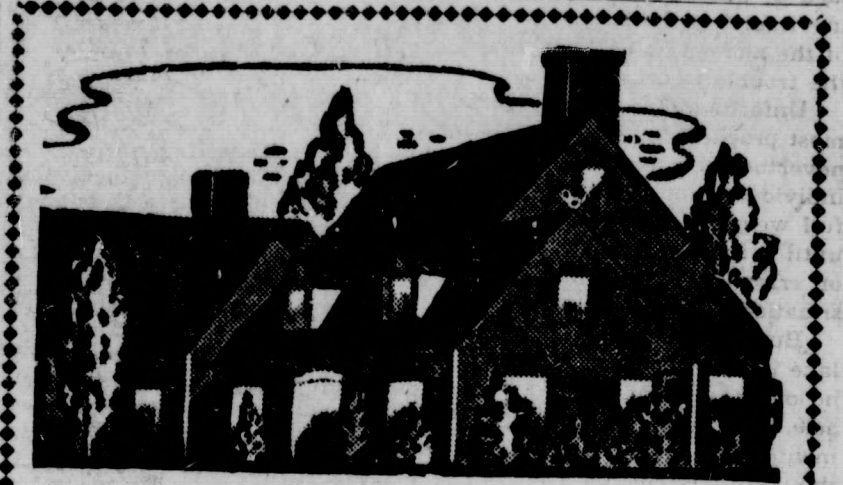

No one has been named as yet to permanently take DeRouen's place.

Vandals Spread Potato Salad Over Masonic Hall

Walter English, custodian of the Masonic Hall, 17 Hillcrest dr., walked into the hall's banquet room last night shortly before a dinner was to be held.

The table was set and all preparations were made for the feed. Also there was quite a bit of potato salad—most of it being on the floor, walls and ceiling of the room.

English told Daly City police that he had stopped two teen-age boys a few minutes before discovering the mess as they were leaving the hall and let them go after questioning.

Action Needed In Westlake Traffic Problem

There are few things certain in this world, but one of them is the tragedy that will shortly come off the curb on Alemany extension or one of the supposedly quiet sidestreets of the Westlake tract. And a speeding car will kill them.

A mother with a child in her arms, or a man, or a few youngsters intent on some game will step off the curb on Alemany extension or one of the supposedly quiet sidestreets of the Westlake tract. And a speeding car will kill them.

Unfortunately, their warnings like those of most prophets have gone unheeded. It is a sad but nevertheless true that a natural inertia prevents individuals and most groups from throwing their full weight into the prevention of these problems until it is too late. That is, until someone is killed or crippled to call the public's attention to the situation.

But the plain fact of the matter is that Westlake is little less than a speed-track. The fact that no one has yet suffered is virtually a major miracle. Inadequate stop signs and traffic law enforcement, combined with a monumental lack of thoughtfulness on the part of many drivers make Westlake as safe for the pedestrian as an A-bomb factory.

That such conditions should exist in a residential area, of all places, whose inhabitants presumably moved there so that they and their families could enjoy the benefits of suburban life is intolerable.

Obviously, some corrective measures are needed quickly. THE RECORD recommends the following:

(1) Stop signs. They should be liberally placed throughout the tract. Children—who regardless of how many times they are warned, will still dash unthinkingly into the streets—play constantly outside, during the summer months in particular. Many additional stop signs would offer them a measure of protection.

(2) A stop light at the Alemany extension-Belmont drive intersection. This requires state authorities to cough up the money—but first must come local recommendations. It is natural for drivers to "open up" on a four-lane highway such as the Extension. Only a stop light will allow people to cross at Belmont drive in safety.

(3) More police supervision. At present this would be difficult to manage. The Daly City police force is understaffed. However, the department will be hiring new men in the near future.

If some of these new men are given Westlake duty, plus stop signs, plus the Alemany Extension-Belmont drive stop light, the tragedy we are expecting to come shortly out of Westlake might be averted.

Council Gives Good Reason To Eliminate Caucuses

One of the best arguments for an end to closed door caucus meetings was inadvertently made by the city council last week.

Operating under the fallacy that all important business must be discussed and often decided in star chamber meetings, the council slammed the door on the public and ruled out the Community Center building for school rooms.

Our opinion of this action was stated several weeks ago. We feel education is more important, regardless of the cost, than recreation.

However, this is not the point. Unquestionably the council acted in a manner they believed to be beneficial to the community. Five men met, discussed and even argued the relative merits of turning a portion of the building over to the Jefferson elementary school district. Their final decision was made in good faith with themselves...the trouble was, it wasn't in good faith with the public.

It appears to us a matter of such grave importance would have warranted a public hearing. The 18,000 "stock holders" in the Community Center should have been given an opportunity to hear the pros and cons of the issue. This is not to say the final decision would have been different, but an open hearing would have acted as a neat way for those opposed to the council's move to let off steam.

As it is, this pent up distrust in the council's decision isn't going to help passage of a bond issue to complete the structure...an issue we heartily endorse. Before a taxpayer is going to add to his load he wants to know the facts, wants to be certain he is acting to benefit himself and the community.

An open hearing, too, would have given the council the much needed opportunity to prepare and present their reasonable (if not in our opinion, justifiable) side of the case.

It is true a certain amount of business has to be discussed in private by councilmen.

But the council is consistently wrong in believing the people elected them to reach final, important decisions without first consulting the voters.

Council Congratulated For View On Commissions

During the past two weeks the local police auxiliary has been the center of a storm of charges and denials by its members and city officials.

Regardless of what side of the badge you are on, it appears obvious to everyone that all is not well with the gentlemen who donate their time each week to assist the civilian defense program.

It was refreshing, then, to hear Tony Ricci, newly appointed police commissioner, sound off at a Monday night council meeting. In a deep, authoritative voice Ricci outlined a plan to enroll the local auxiliary officers in the San Francisco training school for police reservists. The report was a concise, accurate explanation of how to take the wrinkles out of the present local auxiliary system.

The council appeared favorably impressed, and indicated immediate steps would be taken to poll auxiliary officers to determine the number interested in enrolling in the San Francisco police school.

Of even more importance, however, was the impression that the council intends to extend its fullest cooperation and blessings to the police commission and, conversely, the commission to the council.

The police commission will be in charge of an especially red hot political poker, and its going to take a great deal of tact and know-how to keep it from burning either them or other city officials.

Ricci, as apparent spokesman for the group, is on the right path, and if everything goes as well in the future as it went Monday night, residents may be assured of a fine new system of city government.

And while tossing out bouquets, we also note the city council made a worthy selection of officials for the planning commission. Especially notable was the selection of Thomas Tromborg, who opposed two of the elected officials in the past city election. It's a big man indeed who can take on his advisory staff a former political opponent. We are certain Tromborg, as the other four selected commissioners, will more than live up to this trust.

Chamber Of Commerce Appears To Be Failing

Last Thursday evening the newly created Daly City Chamber of Commerce met. It was an auspicious meeting, for in keeping with other past moves to improve the lot of businessmen here approximately six of over 200 invited merchants made an appearance.

There are various means of committing suicide, but there is nothing so neat as cutting off your own food supply. Local businessmen appear to be doing just that, for they are showing little or no interest in attracting customers and dollars to Daly City.

A chamber of commerce is as badly needed here as water to a traveler crossing the desert. Everyone seems aware of the need, but few are willing to take the time to do anything about it.

Meanwhile, bigger and better shopping centers are popping up all around Daly City. Operators of these centers are not a bit bashful about advertising their goods and advantages to average shoppers.

Somewhere along the line Daly City businessmen apparently gave up the desire to grow.

This unnatural position can breed only regression and eventual elimination.

There are close to 450 business concerns in Daly City. It appears to us a majority should see the light, be willing to devote a few dollars and hours for their own betterment by backing a chamber of commerce.

One thing is certain, if businessmen don't wake up to reality sheer apathy will kill them off neater than any competition.

Lions Join Cleanup Bandwagon

With the combined impetus given it by city officials, cooperating merchants, and the Daly City-Colma Lions club, the campaign to clean up the streets and sidewalks at the top-of-the-hill is rolling in high gear.

With the advent of new shopping districts in outlying areas of Daly City, the dirt, rubbish and trash that litter our central business district has finally been recognized as a deterrent to trade; a condition that it bad for both merchants and consumers.

Many businessmen have already announced their intention to cooperate with the city in maintaining a clean and presentable shopping district. In all probability, City Administrator Dan Andersen's threatened crackdown will not be needed to rectify the situation. Andersen, last week, announced that he would ask the council to instruct Daly City police to rigidly enforce existing ordinances against littering and obstructing the sidewalks and streets at the top-of-the-hill.

It is a tribute to the merchants originally at fault that many of them have already taken corrective steps. And in all fairness to them, it must be admitted that normal business procedures—such as taking in supplies—demand that some sidewalk and street space be used part of the time.

And of course, it is inevitable and unavoidable that a certain amount of dirt and rubbish be strewn about at the same time. It is unreasonable to ask that this be eliminated; but only fair to insist that it be kept at a minimum.

Fortunately, most merchants recognize that a trash-littered area is not only an offensive eyesore, but a threat to their continued success in business. It is a situation that must be altered—on a basis of both civic welfare and sound business.

Property Owners Meet Scheduled

County Group To Examine Taxes

The Chairman of the Board of Directors of the San Mateo County Property Owners Association, Edna May Spree, has called a meeting of the Board on Wednesday, July 16.

At the meeting, chairman of the various committees on school budgets, school district unification and school construction costs will make a report of their findings and recommendations. The board will then decide on what action will be taken on each of these items.

While the association recognizes the need and necessity of an adequate school budget, of proper school facilities and school administration; it feels that unless the taxpayer is aware of how his money is being spent, the elected officials responsible for the expenditure of the school funds will not keep these expenditures to a minimum in order to keep the tax rates at a low level.

One of the purposes of the San Mateo County Property Owners Association is to educate the taxpayer on the expenditure of public funds and as soon as facts and figures are available, a series of public meetings will be held to acquaint the taxpayer with its findings.

Twenty-two Air Raid Sirens Set To Go Off

There should be a lot of noise in Daly City next Tuesday, when every air raid siren in San Francisco blows its stack.

San Francisco's Civil Defense sirens will be tested for mechanical perfection and for their area coverage on Tuesday morning, July 22, when all 22 devices will sound off at 11 a. m.

Not Test Alert

"This will not be a test alert," Rear Admiral A. G. Cook, USN (Ret.), director of the San Francisco Disaster Council and Corps, said in announcing Tuesday's sound-off. "It will be solely a test of the sirens; their mechanical fitness, and audibility throughout the city."

The Civil Defense director pointed out that the siren at 26th Avenue and El Camino Del Mar was installed recently and marked the completion of the electric-driven battery of seventeen. Five engine-driven sirens augment the electric-driven sirens.

Two Signals

The signal at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning will be the "Red Alert" signal; one 3-minute warbling blast. At 11:10 the "All Clear" will sound; three one-minute steady blasts separated by 2-minute intervals.

County Demos Name Frank Rose Party Chairman

Frank W. Rose, assistant city attorney of San Mateo and leader of the Kefauver for president forces in the county, was named chairman of the newly elected San Mateo County Democratic Central Committee Tuesday night at its organizational meeting in Redwood City.

Marion H. Kent, chairman for the past two years, was picked as vice chairman. Others selected were Jerry Jorjlow, of San Mateo, secretary; and Emil "Al" Holger, of Half Moon Bay, treasurer.

All 23 committee members attended the meeting, setting the first perfect record in committee history.

Chairman Rose called upon the committee to direct its efforts to electing Harold F. Taggart, Democratic candidate for congressman from San Mateo County, and to campaigning for the presidential candidate to be named at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Taggart Endorsed
Official endorsement of Taggart's candidacy was voted unanimously.

Candidate Taggart spoke briefly to the committee, requesting their participation in his campaign.

"For thirty years, I have been in public service in San Mateo County," stated Taggart. "I have lived here and worked here since 1922 and have come to know the problems and needs of the county. I am the only candidate qualified in this manner to represent San Mateo voters in Washington. I am certain that, with your help, San Mateo voters can be fully informed of my experience and qualifications."

Roy W. Seagraves was designated as the county campaign director for the coming elections. Seagraves outlined a precinct organization plan which was adopted.

The committee recommended that the Democratic State convention to be held in Sacramento on August 2 and 3 include the following projects in its platform: a southern crossing of San Francisco Bay with the type of construction which will adapt itself to a fresh water lake to the south of it and which will not be located north of Candlestick Point; and the Pillar Point breakwater.

The following were chosen as delegates to the state convention: Harold F. Taggart, Roy Archibald, Arnold Johnson and Thomas Jenkins. Each will have the right under the election code to name three additional delegates. With Chairman Rose, who became a delegate upon his election as chairman, this will give San Mateo County seventeen votes in the convention.

There are approximately 100 million acres of brush and tundra lands under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management in Alaska.

Bill Katz . . .

Engaged in a game of backgammon the other evening, a myopic philosopher on the foibles of mankind casually remarked that about 90 per cent of our daily tongue exercise in sheer nonsense.

Take the average donkey's daily conversation, consider it for sheer braying and it is remarkable to think how much useless noise might be eliminated were a man simply to reason before he spoke.

A victim of civilization rarely utters a sound before 9 a.m. This is the blessed period between taciturn drowsiness and vibrant speech. First words spilled in the morning are indeed brilliant: "Good morning." This is said regardless of the fact it is raining, the roof leaks and the toast is burning.

Judgement
Turning to his bearded mate, often difficult to separate from the shape of the kitchen stove, the husband murmurs: "How are you this morning?" He should know better. While he's rinsing out his mouth with coffee, straightening his tie and putting a piece of cardboard in his shoes, the rattled female prattles along about the price of coffee, the next door neighbor's kangaroo and junior's running nose.

Women rarely have a simple answer to an even simpler question.

Once at work, the befogged husband turns on a synthetic smile repeats the same two questions and is met with the usual grunts. It is unfortunate more people simply don't grunt, it would be in keeping with their general appearances and preserve the illusion of man's dignity.

During the course of the day these same two questions "Good morning. And how are you today?" are repeated aimlessly, until noon when everyone switches to "Good afternoon."

Other bits of brilliant banter throughout the day include:

Q. "How's business?"

Stock Answer: "It's terrible." Actually business is fine, it couldn't be better. People are buying more yo-yos than ever, but what sturdy businessman is going to admit he's turning a buck, especially when the income tax boys are slinking around corners. Besides, it isn't democratic to admit you're making money.

Q. "How are things going?"

S. A.: "Oh, so, so." No one is certain as to the meaning of "things," but this generally stands for a condition of health, wealth or matrimony. It is difficult to think of any of these inanimate conditions in action, but they are all "going" someplace. The tone of the "so, so" reply informs the interrogator the someplace is either the salt mines or the injured lover's hell.

Now, everything would be rosy were the answer to these two stock questions to stop there. They never do. They go on and on and never fade away, until the questionnaire manages to ease out and under the door sill.

A man who asks polite, conversational questions is inviting insane answers. And yet we all ask and all answer.

Weather

The weather is another pet topic. Few people give a hang whether it rains or the sun shines, at least if they are trying to put up a pretense of working. But next to politics, the weather invites more time worn clichés than any other useless topic. Everyman is a weatherman.

Granted this conversation wouldn't be wasted were it informative or even launched in a spirit of true interest and concern. Most good homo sapiens don't give a proverbial hang either to questions or trite answers. Watch yourself, for example when in a two way word slinging period. Approximately 80 to 90 per cent of the time your mind is drifting on the shallows of your own concern, and your spending more time thinking how you are going to clutter up the air with sound waves than what the other fellow is saying.

What this country needs is less trite talk, and more reasoned conversations. Only one difficulty... this would eliminate the side shows known as political conventions, and would completely frustrate the fair sex.

OFF THE RECORD

Not too long ago I paid five dollars in the common currency for the neck feathers of a rooster. A few moments after the sale was consummated, to the accompaniment of much smirking on the part of the farmer who owned the fowl, I came to the realization that I too am fruity.

Along say, with about 90 per cent of the citizenry of this nutty nation.

Hobbies

For we Americans are afflicted with a curse comparable to opium in the Orient. We have Hobbies. Mine is one of the more esoteric of the band—I'm a fly-tier.

Only a man in the grips of a monomania as powerful as any yet recorded in the annals of psychology would lay out five smack-daws for the neck covering of a scrawny bird. But in all fairness to myself, it must be added that this was no ordinary cockerel. The son-of-a-gun was a real blue dun of first-rate dry fly quality. Such a bird as any right-minded fly-tier would give a week's salary for, much less five bucks.

Who's Fooling Who

Nevertheless their is something essentially ridiculous in the picture of a grown child laying-out that much moola for feathers. As a consequence, I drove home in a mood of alternate elation and shame, and set to work transforming my prize into artificial insects that would pass muster before the most finicky trout or salmon.

So it goes with the hobbyist. In search of a nice relaxing pastime to sooth his jangled, work-worn nerves, he ends up with a high quality fixation that keeps him mentally, physically and—especially—economically bankrupt.

Scare Rockefeller

An assessment of the fly-tying equipment and materials I have garnered since committing myself to the art would make a Rockefeller blanch. The effect on me is something that has to be seen.

Anyone in my immediate surroundings who reaches for a dropped penny is in mortal danger.

And my eyesight, nothing spectacular to begin, has steadily degenerated under the press of tying tiny flies so that Boy Scouts take my elbow at intersections; and my nose, one the focal point of a hawk-like profile has inverted under the weight of the twin telescopes I use for spectacles.

Misconstrued Natives

Nor am I capable of normal conduct in public. It took a stiff bribe the other day to prevent a lady who sat next to me in a coffee-shop from calling the cops. When I pulled out my scissors, she thought I was a homicidal maniac. All I wanted was a snip at the peacock feathers that decorated her hat. But people are over-apt to jump at conclusions in such circumstances.

At any rate, thank God, I'm not one of those poor characters who fritter away their spare time with a tall glass and a good book or a blonde. I wouldn't wish that kind of a life on a dog.

But just between you and me, friend, there's a small fortune in fly-tying equipment going on the auction block one of these days soon. I'm not altogether pleased with the way things are going. Besides, I've got a crack at one of the finest stamp collection in the country. Why, any man in his right mind would jump at the chance to...

Ridgely Cummings . . .

HOLLYWOOD

There just ain't no justice. Otherwise Vivien Leigh would never have nabbed the Best Actress Award for 1951 over Katherine Hepburn.

When the Oscars were handed out last March I hadn't yet seen "The African Queen" while I had appreciated it not enjoyed Miss Leigh's performance as the pitiful nymphomaniac in "Streetcar Named Desire." So I held my peace.

De'ayed

I intended to catch "African Queen" as soon as possible but one thing after another intervened. Meanwhile various friends pounded my ear about the magnificence of John Huston's direction and his general all around excellence. They touted me on to attending the opening of his "Red Badge of Courage" and although I found this a superior picture I was unable to give it the accolade of great.

Since these partisans had overrated Huston's direction of Audie Murphy and company in his version of Stephen Crane's Civil War novel, I thought it probable that they were doubly guilty of overselling me on "African Queen." Also I'm inclined to be contrary minded. If everyone declares a picture stinks I'll usually find something good in it, while a popular success provokes me to an excessively critical examination.

All this is a sort of explanatory prelude to why I'm writing about "The African Queen" at this late date. I finally caught up with it the other night and want to put in a belated squawk about the Academy Award Committee's neglect of Katie.

Great?

"The African Queen" is nothing less than a great film. John Huston's direction and the script by him and James Agee are maturely intelligent while the overall conception is thoroughly adult and a credit to the movie industry. At the same time it is grand entertainment.

The picture opens with long shots of the jungle and then the camera pans down on the ludicrous but touching caterwauling of the primitive parishioners in a little straw church. It closes on a note of singing too, having completed the circle, with the sunpot skipper and his skinny missionary bride swimming to safety while croaking a cockney tune. In between is some magnificent music by the London Philharmonic, never obtrusive but suited to the action and lingering pleasantly in the memory after the film has unreeled.

Lush Color

If the sound track is good, which it is, the camera work is even better. The technicolor is lush and beautiful but never artificial or unnatural in its hues and indeed much of the time one forgets the artifice of the technicians and watches with the complete absorption of another passenger on the rickety thirty-foot launch which gives the picture its name.

There is something pleasing in the grandiose title of "African Queen" for this weather-beaten old tub with its wheezy engine, Ocean liners and million dollar yachts sometimes are baptised with romantic and mellifluous names but it is the owners of the little launches and cabin cruisers who really reach high for pretentious names. Liking their craft not to reality but to the infinite possibilities of their hopes and imaginations.

Familiar Tale

There is no need for me to condense the plot here. Most readers will be familiar with it, either from C. S. Forester's novel on which it is based, or from location stories written by Huston in Theatre Arts Magazine and Mrs. Humphrey (Lauren Bacall) Bogart in a newspaper series, or from reviews in their local papers.

It is a shame too, for I would enjoy telling about that wild trip down the river, though the rapids, past the fort, into the marshes and swamps and finally to the false security of the lake. But that is one of the penalties of arriving tardily upon the scene. The ground has been worked over by other scribes and since I don't want the readers to disembark at the next period I must avoid repetition. I'll stick with the personal reactions, which nobody else can duplicate because each of us views a work of art in our own individual way, predetermined by our particular set of emotions, likes and dislikes.

Buried Treasure

Probably that's why I enjoyed Miss Hepburn's performance so much. She must have reminded me of a deeply buried and unconsciously cherished dream.

Bogart was of course excellent and he has a golden Oscar to prove it. At no time did he step out of character to become the snarling bully-boy that he usually plays in gangster and intrigue films. He was always Charlie, a simple Canadian with amiable weaknesses who came to Africa because he wanted to be his own boss and indulge his own unsophisticated vices. He displayed a high gift for comedy and the mixture of humility and vanity that one finds in ordinary, untutored workers. At the same time he makes the skipper's rise to heights of generosity and love completely believable.

But it was Katherine Hepburn as the gaunt, ungainly spinster with a basic core of idealism who stole the picture and my heart. Her transition from a repressed old maid to a courageous and warm woman whose love inspired an ordinary man to extraordinary feats was, the way this corner sees it, a masterpiece.

1742 Against One

She was terrific, no less, and I hereby demand a recount. The 1,742 members of the academy can be wrong and they were when they passed her by to give the female Oscar to Miss Leigh. I think there was politics involved for Warner's produced "Streetcar" and since MGM got theirs with "American In Paris" and Paramount picked up the direction award for "Place In The Sun," it might have made the moguls unhappy to ignore Warner's and give the two awards to Huston's independent production.

I'm not serious about demanding a recount for it is too late to rectify the mistake. Probably next year or the next, the academy voters will give Katie a consolatory award for some performance not half so good. For though she's a fine actress it is not often that she will find a role so suited to her personality combined with the direction to bring out her best, as happened in "African Queen."

Plan Queen Contest For Home Show

A search for beauty queens from this area to act as theme girls of this year's spectacular Peninsula Home Show to be held at the Fiesta Building in San Mateo, September 13 through 21, got underway this week.

The show, which will display the latest in new home products and a host of indoor and outdoor living ideas, is being presented by the more than 175 members of the Peninsula General Contractors and Builders association.

The theme girl contest according to Alec J. McKenzie, president of the sponsoring organization, seeks entries from every Peninsula community.

Mr. McKenzie said that contestants will compete for cash prizes and a host of gifts to be awarded to the first, second and third place winners. The judging will be held on the Home Show stage on opening night.

A registered nurse employed at the County hospital, Mrs. Candelario reported that her son, Anthony, was missing for over an hour all told.

CITY OFFICIAL IS SORRY ABOUT WATER SHUTDOWN

There no longer will be a need to melt ice cubes for drinking water in Westlake.

At least that is the hope of Public Works Superintendent A. J. Bodien, who today apologized to Westlake residents for the cut-off in their water supply Monday and Tuesday. The shutdown was necessitated by a blow-out in a main pipe at North Mayfair and Sheffield drive.

Bodien said the new pressure reducing valve will be in operation late this week and this should eliminate any more interference in Westlake's water supply.

Long-Wearing Cutting Board

A SPLINTER-FREE cutting board that won't be affected by acids or moisture and which will wear for a long time may be cut any size from a piece of Masonite quarter-inch tempered hardboard.

This hard, dense, smooth board won't dull knives. It is indispensable for any kitchen, as it is useful in many food-preparing tasks.

Illustrated is one that is 12 inches wide and 18 inches long. Inscribe arcs, as shown, and cut the shape with a scroll, coping or keyhole saw. Bevel the edges lightly with a sandblock, plane or file.

For "rolling" dough, a rectangular piece of hardboard large enough to cover the working surface should be used.

Keep the cutting board clean by wiping with a damp cloth.

TYPICAL OF THE CONDITIONS often found on top-of-the-hill is shown here as the young lady crossed a paper littered section at Mission street and Bepier. Local businessmen are cooperating with the city in an effort to keep this section of town cleaner, but evidently much more is needed.

LIONS CLUB BACKS TOP-OF-THE HILL CLEAN UP DRIVE

Heartily commended by the Daly City-Colma Lions club was the city council for its forceful action in calling for a cleaning up of the top-of-the-hill.

The Lions board of directors—who have set up a special civic improvement committee — yesterday told THE RECORD, "If there's an ordinance in the city to take care of this situation, let's have the police enforce it."

"Mission street," they added, "should be cleaned up all the way down to San Pedro road."

Most merchants have cooperated to the fullest extent in the city's drive to beautify its central business district, said Andersen. However, he added, "So cluttered are the sidewalks in front of some business houses, it is necessary to walk single file to get past them."

Commendation from the Lions club came after Andersen last week told THE RECORD he would ask the city council to instruct Police Chief Roland Petrochi to take action against non-cooperating merchants.

Andersen said he will also ask the chief to enforce a city ordinance prohibiting merchants from extensive use of the sidewalk in displaying merchandise and taking in supplies.

San Francisco To Help Save Butano

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17 — City Attorney Dion Holm has given legal approval to a contribution of $100,000 sought from San Francisco toward purchase of Butano Forest in San Mateo county.

Holm ruled the fact the people had failed by a narrow margin to approve a bond issue for the purpose in 1949 did not prevent the supervisors from voting the funds from other sources. The $100,000 represents the share allocated to San Francisco for a fund to be raised by five counties to buy the forest and save it from logging operations.

San Mateo county, Santa Clara county and many private individuals have already contributed funds for the purchase of Butano Forest which have been matched by contributions from the State of California.

After the purchase of Butano Forest which is one of the largest areas in California, it will be set aside as a state park. Butano Forest will thereafter be another of the public parks and play areas in the North County area available to residents for recreational purposes.

Blazing Truck Eludes Firemen

Men of three North County fire departments chased after a blaze late last week, but couldn't chase fast enough—the fire was on wheels.

Or on the back of a truck heading north along Bayshore, to be more specific. The driver, Tom McAllister of San Francisco, cooped blissfully past minions of the Burlingame, San Bruno and Millbrae fire departments with the rear of his truck unknowingly ablaze.

Motorists' Phone
Motorists on the highway phoned alarms as the truck continued along its way, but the firemen failed to reach and warn the driver before he went past their limits.

By the time he reached South San Francisco, McAllister turned off the freeway from the Grand avenue overpass and discovered—finally—the fire. His brakes had burned out and the truck would not stop.

McAllister tried to slow the truck by going down into a lower gear, but failed. He was forced to ditch the truck on adjoining railroad tracks. The vehicle rolled to a gentle stop alongside a water tank used to fill switch engines.

When South San Francisco firemen reached the spot, McAllister was fighting the fire with a hose line from the water tank. Firemen finished off.

South City firemen report that a tarpaulin on the truck bed had apparently blown against the truck's exhaust pipe and caught fire. Flames had severely damaged the bottom of the truck.

Denying that the filthy condition at the top-of-the-hill, first commented on publicly in a series of editorials in THE RECORD, was the fault of the city, Andersen said:

"We clean up the main street every morning, but by 10 o'clock it is littered with rubbish and waste certain merchants sweep out of their stores."

"Local merchants should get together and do a bit of house-cleaning," he added. "A cluttered condition on the hill just makes it an unattractive place to shop. They are working a hardship on themselves."

Bertetta To Head City Chest Drive

Appointment of Fred Bertetta as city campaign chairman of the Daly City-Colma area, for this fall's Community Chest drive, was announced today by Eugene D. Fletchall co-chairman for the North County.

Bertetta, also leader in last year's campaign, lives at 10 Wilshire Court, Daly City. He formerly was a member of the Daly City council and trustee of the Jefferson Elementary school district and has been active in civic affairs for many years.

He is a member of the North County Industrial Committee, a board member of the Widow & Orphans' association of the Daly City firemen, president of Treasure Island Motel and Trailer Courts, Inc., president of Economy

Food & Locker Plants, Daly City, and distributor for San Mateo and San Francisco counties for the Rio Grande Oil Company.

An organization meeting of the Community Chest was held last week in the City Hall council chambers and Bertetta is now lining up his various chairmen. He pointed out that workers are needed in every division of the campaign and those who wish to help can call his home-PLaza 5-4356.

In addition to the present 15 Chest agencies, money will also be raised for the United Defense Fund, headed by the USO, Bertetta, said.

GIRL SWALLOWS MALE HORMONE TABLETS

Four and one half-year-old Tama Schmidt, 630 Bellevue street swallowed four male hormone tablets last Thursday and was rushed to Junipero Serra hospital.

Officials there reported that the pills "probably wouldn't have hurt her, but it is impossible to tell what pills taken in quantity will do."

They were removed as a safety precaution, it was added.

Pfc. Steninbach In Boston Maneuvers

Steninbach is with the 56th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Brigade, one of several Army units in the first controlled training exercise geared to put the air defenses of the United States and Canada on an all-out operational basis.

His anti-aircraft artillery batteries, working jointly with Canadian air defenses and a major portion of the Civilian Ground Observer Corps (GOC), will comprise the team co-ordinated for this air defense maneuver over Greater Boston and northeastern U. S.

Easy On The License Plates; None 'Til '56

Daly City motorists are advised to treat their license plates with a care ordinarily reserved for babes in arms.

The state automobile association has announced that current plates will not be exchanged for new ones until 1956—over three and a half years.

The state is issuing new plates only once every five years now, it was added, and only tabs, such as were issued last year, will be given out in '53, '54 and '55.

CAR BOOSTER GETS FREE GROCERIES

An unknown thief should be eating well this week.

Late Monday afternoon, Mrs. C. Read, manager of the Western Auto Supply, corner of 87th street and Junipero Serra boulevard, left her car parked on the 87th street side of the store while she was working.

In the car—which was unlocked—were the results of her earlier shopping at the grocery store.

Police are looking for a man with a well-fed lock.

New radio relay to Seattle extends coast-to-coast telecasts to all the West in time for the conventions.

"Live" TV now spans the West

New radio relay brings convention telecasts to all West Coast viewers

On July 7th, the Bell System's radio relay system and coaxial cables enabled the TV networks to bring the Republican Convention to the nation's television viewers—who will also see the Democratic Convention on July 21st. It is now possible for all West Coast TV stations—from San Diego to Seattle—to carry these important national events as they happen. To accomplish this, Pacific Telephone engineers made special changes in the coaxial cable between Sacramento and Portland. They also rushed the installation of a new radio relay link from Portland to Seattle so both could be used together for the transmission of television network programs over this 745 mile route.

Your telephone is one of today's best bargains

The nationwide radio relay system is only one example of how we are constantly improving telephone service while holding the cost of service down—keeping it so low, in fact, that a telephone call remains one of today's best buys in any budget—your home's or your nation's.

With the completion of Pacific Telephone's newest radio relay facilities, 99% of the nation's television viewers can be reached by network programs—making it possible for any event of national significance to be flashed visually across the nation in a fraction of a second. Telephone calls too, are carried by radio relay. Later this year, for example, the Pacific Northwest radio relay link will carry 132 simultaneous "through" calls—but that's only a fraction of its ultimate capacity. Important for convenience and entertainment, the radio relay system is even more important today when the telephone is hard at its biggest job—keeping America strong.

In a ceremony at the Abbey Chapel of Olivet Memorial Park, Barbara Rose, North Platte, Nebraska, was claimed last Friday by Marine Sgt. Wayne E. Honeywell, brother-in-law of John Price, former mayor of Colma.

Her skirt was very moulded, but full circular with a five-foot train. Long, pointed sleeves, a neckline running to the shoulder edge and filled in with illusion, and trimmed with a very fine row of seed pearls enhanced her ensemble.

A cap of Juliet - shaped satin with seed pearls in a cross motif, and a two-tiered veil—one to mid-calf, the other to the elbow—completed her dress. She carried an arm sheaf of white carnations and orchids.

Old, New . . .

Marie followed the revered old, new, borrowed and blue tradition to the letter. The happy bride wore her new article was an exquisite wedding band of wide gold, inherited from her grandmother, square of Carriekmacross lace; her borrowed, a 105-year-old cameo pin that formerly belonged to her great-grandmother; her blue was satin stitching around her petticoat hem.

A graduate of San Francisco State College, where she received her teaching credential, Marie also attended the Willamette University in Salem, Oregon, for two years, where she was a Phi Beta Phi.

She has taught third grade at the Westlake school for the past six months after her graduation in January.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Jesse W. Tapp, Sr., wore a gown of beige lace and crepe with a lace stole. Cocoa colored hat and gloves added to her costume and she carried an orchid spray corsage.

Mrs. Glasse was dressed in lavender-blue crepe with a finely-tucked bodice, and deep blue pure silk stole, gloves and hat. She carried a similar corsage.

Maid of Honor was Grace Gertman of Alameda and San Francisco State college. Bridesmaids were Cathleen Cayford of Oakland and the University of California, Carolyn Durham of Alameda and Stanford, and Florence Hawkesworth of Eugene, Ore., and the University of Oregon. Bernadette Kostevich of Broadmoor was junior attendant.

They wore pale blue taffeta with white marquisette over, and strapless bodices with full-ballerina skirts. Over-the-shoulder stoles, white kid pumps and gloves complemented their gowns. For flowers, each had orchid beauty carnations—pink for the honor attendant.

Best man and ushers were Fielding N. Tapp and Clay E. Thomson both Stanford graduates, and Bruce Moody and James Marino, both of U. C.

Reception at Church

An estimated 275 guests thronged to the reception, which was held at the church. The hosts received before an ivy covered background decorated with flowers in spring colors. The giant cake was in five tiers, and refreshments were served.

Special guests were Mrs. Charles Hawkesworth and daughter Florence from Oregon, and Mrs. Kathryn Willott of Los Angeles.

The newlyweds will make their home in Chicago near the medical school which Jesse attends, but first will come a one-month cruise to Alaska, including visits to remote villages by private plane and boat during a stopover at Juneau.

Then they will take a similar length tour through the South and East Coast by auto, visit briefly in New York and leave for Denmark, where Jesse will spend a year's study.

Superintendent Tormey addressed the group on "Developing Standards for Special School Equipment." The program also included demonstrations of actual classroom use of equipment; a background of the corrective industries work as presented by Dr. Nicholas Ricciardi, Field Consultant for Division of Corrections, State of California; a panel report on "Practical Use of Special Equipment, with Evaluation and Creative Suggestions" by classroom teachers and informal discussions during all phases of the conference.

ANGLING ANGLES BY Old Hi

When the fish go deep in the hot days of summer, it's often a problem to find them and return home with a good catch. Since game fish remain at water levels that have a "comfortable temperature" and where there is sufficient oxygen, one of the best and quickest ways to discover where they are resting is to make use of a Fishing Thermometer.

You lower this instrument in a lake or river and take note of the temperature readings at various depths. From this you can figure out at what levels the cold water fish (lake trout and whitefish, for example) will be found—where it reads 45 to 55 degrees—and where the warm water fish (black bass, pickerel, sunfish, etc.) will be lurking.

Another way to discover both the resting and feeding grounds of fish like walleyed pike, northern pike, and muskies, is to search for the sunken reefs and channels. In other words, chart the bottom conditions. You want to know not only the contours of the bottom, but also where the sand, gravel, rock, and mud bars exist.

This may be done simply by testing with a heavy lead sinker tied to 80 or 100 feet of linen line, marked every 5 or 10 feet with thread to let you know the exact depth. By jouncing the sinker you can tell what type of bottom lies beneath. Channels, bars, and submerged points may be "pin pointed" by lining them up with distinctive landmarks on three shores.

From these soundings you'll have a fishing plan of the lake or river bottom that will pay off in good results. You can still fish, drift fish, or troll along the edges of these bars or

To Study Wildlife Kill By Industrial, Farm Poisons

The effects of economic poisons on California's wildlife is the subject of a three-year federal aid project begun this month by the Department of Fish and Game and the University of California.

Concentrating on the state's agricultural areas, the research team will look into the largely unknown effects on game birds and animals of the more than 7,000 agricultural insecticides, rodenticides, herbicides and fungicides now used in California.

Local Chiefs
The Pittman-Robertson project is financed jointly by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the California Department of Fish and Game. Ben Glading and John E. Chattin, chief and assistant chief respectively, of the department's game conservation branch, will supervise.

Lauren E. Resenberg, associate professor of zoology, University of California at Davis, has been named project leader. An advisory committee will be composed of representatives of various sportsman, agricultural, governmental and educational groups.

To Recommend
Findings of the pioneer project will be released to the Department of Fish and Game to aid its recommendations on the use of specific chemicals in relation to their effects on wildlife.

With 75 per cent of the cost provided by the federal government from arms and ammunition taxes, the project team will survey literature in the field to ascertain results of work already done; experiment to determine the effects on wildlife of the more important chemicals or groups of chemicals; make field studies of the immediate and after effects of large scale applications of various chemicals; and summarize information gained so that the department may make recommendations on chemical use.

Supreme Court Says Supervisors Were Justified
San Mateo county's Board of Supervisors were vindicated the other day by a ruling of the California Supreme court.

The high judicial body ruled that the supervisors were within their rights when they hired an attorney in 1949 to represent the county in a case before the state public utilities commission.

The ruling was a reversal of that of Superior Judge Edmund Scott of San Mateo county.

The 1949 case involved Southern Pacific, which at that time was asking a fare hike from the PUC between San Francisco and San Jose.

The county then engaged Attorney Marvin Handler of San Francisco for a $1500 fee. Contention arose when the county controller refused to pay the fee, questioning whether the supervisors had the legal right to hire experts by resolution.

Crab Season Ends This Month Throughout State

California's crab fishing season—both sport and commercial—will end July 31 in all parts of the state, says the Department of Fish and Game.

The regulation applies only to the so-called market crab, cancer magister, and not the rock crabs taken by sportsmen throughout the year.

The commercial fishing season, and sports fishing in north coast districts 6, 7, 8 and 9 will resume November 15. Elsewhere, non-commercial crab fishermen may set their traps from December 15 to July 31.

State Bombs 610 High Lakes—With Trout
When the California Department of Fish and Game winds up its current trout aerial planting program in August, more than 2,600,000 fingerlings will have been dropped in remote mountain lakes.

The intense six-week planting schedule calls for the dropping of fish in 610 lakes between Sequoia National Park and the Oregon line. Most of this year's aerial plant will be eastern brook trout, with a few waters marked to receive rainbows.

The summer planting program was delayed this year because many waters at higher elevations were iced over following record winter snowfalls.

SHASTA BASS GET FREE MEAL OF MINNOWS

The hungry black bass of Shasta Lake, currently providing what the California Department of Fish and Game calls the best bass fishing in the west, have been served another helping of golden shiners as a guarantee of sustained angling success.

Seventeen thousand shiners were planted in the reservoir this month as a black bass forage fish. It is the second plant of the minnow-type fish since the department introduced largemouth black bass to the lake in 1949.

While the state agency has cooperated with other organizations in the introduction of Kamloops trout and Kokanee salmon in recent years, it is the black bass which accounts for the lake's excellent fishing reputation, and seems to hold the greatest promise for easy, year-round angling, according to the inland fisheries branch.

Offer Supervised Craft Classes

By Joe Ballav, Recreation Sup.
Art is art, and those who teach it are endowed with a special gift. One such gifted woman is Miss Eleanor Hughes, who as full time instructor is giving to our youngsters an appreciation of the fun and adventure to be found in arts and craftwork. Send that son or daughter of yours to the Craft Center. They will find a new experience.

Classes
Classes are held Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 255 Vista Grande from 9:30 to 10:30 for the 7 to 8 year olds and 11 to 12 for the nine and over group. Also at the Jefferson Elementary school, 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. on the same days. Miss Hughes is also conducting classes at the Crocker school all day on Tuesday and Thursday. Send them; they will be glad you did.

We all have a soft spot for dolls, but maybe we oldsters won't admit it to each other. So send your offspring in your place to the doll show on Wednesday, July 23, at any of the Daly City playgrounds. There will be awards for the worst, biggest, smallest, tallest, ugliest, most beautiful, etc. The youngsters will enjoy it; so will you!

Skating Party
Friday, July 25, a skating party for all of the boys and girls will be held at Skateland, at the Beach roller-skate rink. Your parents may obtain further information and forms at your nearest playground center. In fact, why not make a family day of it on wheels?

This week the movie to be shown is "The Big Noise" with Laurel and Hardy. The kids will love this one.

Successful Fishing
In retrospect, the fishing party at Lake Merced last Wednesday was a great success. We don't admit to catching too many fish, but we had a grand time trying. Thanks to all parents who helped the program.

For further information on any of the above please contact the director at the nearest playground or phone PL 5-0477.

VINCE AND FRED'S MEET COOPER-VARNI
Vince and Fred's nine, best hope to bring the Double "A" Managers league title home to Daly City, clash this Sunday at Marchbanks field with the Cooper-Varni team. Game starts at 2 p.m.

Strengthened by the addition of new blood, the locals plan to do just a bit better in the current tourney than in summer league play, where they copped second place.

D. C. SEALS MOVE INTO FIRST PLACE; WITH BARE 4-3 WIN OVER GIANTS

Cubs Dump Caddies; Bernasconie Scores

On the Marchbanks diamond last Tuesday, July 8, the Daly City Cubs won their second game in three starts by thumping the Caddies 9-3 in a well played contest. This marked the third straight defeat for the Caddies; but the fast-improving ball club will have to be reckoned with in the league's second half.

Tuesday's game started out as a slugfest with each team scoring twice in the opening frame. George Bernasconie took over the mound chores for the Cubs at that point, relieving big Ty Tujerio.

Bernasconie kept the Cubs in check for the remainder of the game with his well controlled fast ball and slow curve. The Caddies were able to push across only one run on two hits in the last six innings against Bernasconie's smart pitching.

Willie Nieve, Caddie hurler, and potentially the best pitcher in the league, was plagued by occasional wildness and poor support.

Despite the fact that he pitched seven hit ball the Cubs pushed across two runs in the first, three in the third, two in the sixth, and single tallies in the fourth and fifth.

Batting star of the day was Bob Gustovson who doubled and singled in three trips. Timely hitting by Ruelas, Tujerio and Kay also aided the Cub cause. Armstrong, Edwards and Gonzales hit the ball well for the losers.

State Trappers Catch Seven Mountain Lions

Hunter-trappers employed by the California Department of Fish and Game removed a total of 630 predatory animals during the month of May, of which seven were mountain lions.

The state agency announced that three of the big cats were taken in Monterey county, and two in Kern county. Mono and Colusa counties accounted for one each. Top counties in the monthly coyote kill were San Diego, 20; Siskiyou, 19; and Riverside, 16. A total of 162 coyotes were bagged. One hundred and forty-eight bobcats were also cured of their bird and game eating habits.

Camp Roberts, Calif., is one of the few Army posts named after an enlisted man. The Camp was named after Corporal Harold W. Roberts, 17-year-old California tank crewman who was posthumously awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for extraordinary valor in a tank battle in France in 1918, during World War I.

Team mentor Joseph Sarto, however, remains undismayed by the loss. "They were all professionals anyway," he says. "They even had a couple of former players for the Oakland Oaks."

Winning Four

The Seals picked up their winning four scores with the aid of third baseman Larry Kennedy, center fielder George Miller, pitcher Vern Wallagora, and shortstop Leroy Storm.

Madden, Rasmussen and Hutchinson did similar duty for the losing nine.

That leaves the Seals on top of the league (as of this Monday) as it approaches the half-way mark of the first round robin. The Giants are tied with the Daly City Cubs for the number two spot, both with two wins and one loss.

Lower down the list come the M. B. Tigers, who have won one, lost two; and the Suds, with a similar ranking. Riding the camoose at the present time are the Caddies—no wins, three losses.

Coming Games

Scheduled for the remainder of this week through next Thursday are the following tilts:

Today, Thursday, Seals vs. Cubs at Marchbanks. Next Tuesday, July 22, Giants vs. Caddies at the Jeff High diamond. Thursday, July 24, Cubs vs. Tigers at Marchbanks. All games begin at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Sarto Loses One To Pro-Loaded Opponents

Down to inglorious defeat went the Sarto AC nine last Sunday at Marchbanks field. The Moffat-Manteca Beef diamondmen trounced the Sarto club to a rousing 10-1 tune.

Lead-off hurler for the locals was Tito Sarto, who held the powerhouse Beef-eaters to three hits and two runs up to the sixth frame. Bill Rainey took over then, loaded the bags and walked two men home. Don Deluzio tried his hand and failed to do better.

Team mentor Joseph Sarto, however, remains undismayed by the loss. "They were all professionals anyway," he says. "They even had a couple of former players for the Oakland Oaks."

"We solved our hauling problems with Dodge 'Job-Rated' trucks"
...says BERNARD J. CARNEY, Manager, Weyerhaeuser & Denkmann Lumber Yard, Rock Island Lumber Co., Rock Island, Ill.

"Our business calls for trucks that can haul big loads day in and day out—and we like our trucks to last, too! That's why we prefer Dodge trucks that are 'Job-Rated' to fit our particular hauling job. "We recently put in service two Dodge 'Job-Rated' 1½-ton models... and they sure haul big loads the way we want them to! For instance, the 170-inch wheelbase models allow for a 14-foot body, which is ideal for our business. And Dodge easy-handling advantages enable us to maneuver these trucks in the same space as some other trucks with 12-foot bodies."

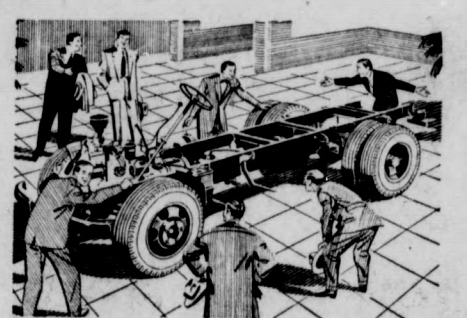

For bigger payloads, choose from many Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks—½- through 4-ton.

"Job-Rated" engineering makes it possible for you to haul more with the right Dodge truck for your needs.

You haul more economically, because of advantages like lightweight aluminum-alloy pistons and others.

For smoother power and extra load protection, glycol Fluid Drive is available on ½-, ¾-, 1-ton and Route-Van models.

Come in for a demonstration—and an extra good deal!

$32,000,000 Banked Through Last Week

Thirty-two million dollars—enough money to keep a man in gumdrops for some time to come—went out of national circulation during the seven-day period ending Wednesday, July 9.

This does not mean, however, that we are all doomed to immediate poverty. There is still $29,148,000,000 in circulation, says the federal reserve bank.

The drop, they report, was due to cash flowing back into banks after the Fourth of July weekend, on the left.

KEEP TO RIGHT

National Automobile Club urges motorists to keep to the right, pass after the Fourth of July weekend.

WHILE THIS COULD BE TYPICAL of any scene in Westlake these days, this particular bit of construction is being done at the Town & Country Shopping Center where still another building to house a score of stores is going up. The sky that once sheltered vacant rolling hills is now looking down upon bulldozers and carpenters who are making Westlake one of the largest single housing developments on the West coast.

World's Highest Mountain Grows Higher - Report

Like an adolescent suffering "growing pains," Mt. Everest, the highest mountain in the world, keeps getting taller with every year.

Latest report on the growing mountain comes from a service expedition, latest to try for the honor of being first to climb the "Crown of the World," located in the giant Himalaya range of Tibet and Northern China.

Nearly 30,000 Dr. Edouard Wyss-Dunant, leader of the Swiss expedition, said his party's measurements show the mountain has stretched up to 29,610 feet. It is listed by the world almanac as 29,002.

Indian scientists, who checked the expedition's figures with measurements of their own, say the peak has grown 200 feet in the last 100 years. Dr. M. S. Kirshnan, geological expert of the Indian government, placed the peak's new height at 29,200 feet and said the rise was due to movements of the earth's crust.

Abominable Snowman Wyss-Dunant's party also reported finding tracks of the "abominable snowman," reported by earlier expeditions. Legend has it that the "snowman" is a fabulous ape-like creature who makes three-toed prints and eats children.

Photographs made of the prints on previous expeditions show them as many times the size of a human foot, and one mountain-climber who reportedly saw the monster said it was capable of running at top speed through the thin mountain air of upper Tibet.

Just Short Member of the Swiss expedition who made the highest ascent on the recent trip was Ramond Lambert, who came within approximately 900 feet of the top on May 28. His record probably marks the highest point a man has gone on Everest and returned to tell the tale.

On an English expedition following World War I, the famous climber George Leigh-Mallory and a young companion left the less-sturdy members of their expedition behind the mountain and disappeared into the constant halo of snow and ice that covers the peak.

They were never seen again—alive or dead.

St. Helena, located in Napa County, is reported by the National Automobile Club to be surrounded by vineyards and to be noted for its excellent wines.

EMPORIUM OFFERS LOCAL SHOPPERS BEST AVAILABLE

Big "E" Has Long History Of Service

The Emporium Stonestown is in reality an extension of the fine merchandising services which have been available to the residents of San Francisco since The Emporium Downtown was established on Market street in 1896.

Virtually all the same lines of merchandise will be carried by The Big E in its new three-level store with over 90 departments in 6½ acres of floor space.

Dominating the fully coordinated shopping project at Stonestown, The Emporium's unit combines all the newest innovations in customer convenience and comfort, and will pioneer for this area several "firsts" in the details of construction and decor of the handsome building, as well as in retailing efficiency.

The new store was designed by the architectural firm of Welton Becket and Associates to the specifications of E. C. Lipman, President of Emporium Capwell Company, who drew upon suggestions of his company executives for special refinements in placing of the departments. The Emporium's staff architect, O. W. Litsinger, supervised the actual construction of the more than a quarter million square feet of floor space.

The Exterior Design

The exterior of the new Emporium is of concrete, fieldstone and handmade ruffle brick. The structure is surmounted by a soaring, conical tower of white enamel, more than 100 feet high, on which is emblazoned in red the big Emporium "E". Apart from the dramatic distinction it lends to the design of the building, this "flying wedge" fulfills the practical function of housing the elevator shaft and penthouse, the ventilating fans and other mechanical equipment. Cantilevered arcades provide covered pedestrian passageways along most of the building's circumference.

Location Of Entrances

There are seven main entrances to the store: three from the Lower Level, with two of these opening directly from the parking area, and one into the store through the store's restaurant. At the Middle Level two additional entrances open from the parking area, and one from the Mall.

The Interior Design

The interior design of the new Emporium represents an entirely new approach to the planning of a modern department store. Long before actual plans were drawn up, Welton Becket and his 100-man staff of specialists, working with Emporium management, spent months of research determining the "flow patterns" for merchandise, store personnel and customer traffic, with the goal of making the new building completely efficient. The result will be the absolute minimum of time and effort required to complete the merchandising cycle from the delivery of goods at the unloading dock to the moment a shopper leaves the store with his purchases.

A basic color scheme of gold, terra-cotta and a deep, grayed green is employed on all three levels, with yellow and rust as accent colors and all fixtures executed in gray-stained oak or maple. Woods, such as pecky cypress in the boy's section and sand-blasted redwood in the restaurant, are occasionally utilized as wall surfacings, with specially designed, hand-blocked wallpapers in the men's store, knitting instruction room, women's alteration room, and bridal shop. Travertine marble is used as facing for the elevators, and floor coverings include brick, asphalt and rubber tile, terrazzo and a variety of carpetings.

Accommodation Services

Located near the center of the Stonestown center, at the north end of a Mall lined with smaller stores and specialty shops, The Emporium will provide the services of a complete department store. The Emporium buyers will buy for the new store, and Customer and Employee services will parallel those of the main headquarters.

Included will be the food service department, to be known as the Buffet, seating 210. A Bakery Goods department, Beauty Salon, Hosiery Repair, Jewelry and Watch Repair, Optometrist, Photo Studio, Sewing Service and Instruction, and a Travel Bureau are among the accommodation services to be offered by the unit, as well as art needlework department with a skylight work room for patrons desiring instruction in needlework handicrafts.

Free Parking

Twenty-five hundred cars can be accommodated in the shopping center, creating for the project what The Emporium's President E. C. Lipman calls "An island of retailing in a lake of parking."

To insure pedestrian safety in the wide areas of free public parking, all truck deliveries to The Emporium, and to the other stores of the Stonestown project, will be by underground tunnel.
